SKATING, HOCKEY AT RCAF ARENA

Six-year-old Jake Ferguson tries out a few moves at the RCAF Flyers Arena on Wednesday, January 4. Members of the Trenton Figure Skating Club were granted ice time over the holiday season in preparation for their upcoming annual carnival, featuring former Olympic medallist Brian Orser.

OH, WHAT A YEAR IT'S BEEN!

On top of its usual operational requirements and ongoing commitment to OP ATHENA, 8 Wing/CFB Trenton participated in four high profile humanitarian missions in 2005 - OP STRUCTURE (South-East Asia), OP PLATEAU (Pakistan) OP UNISON (Southern United States) and OP CANOPY (Kashechewan, Ontario). See story below for more information and pages 10 and 11 for more photos. 2005: It was a year of many firsts for Canada's Air Force

by Holly Bridges
CASD Air PA

2005 has been an exceptionally busy and exciting year for the Canadian Air Force. We salute all members of the Air Force family, both military and civilian, on the ground and in the air, for another year of outstanding support to the Air Force and Canadian Forces' mission and offer these highlights of 2005.

Operations

Training and deploying on operations is a fact of life in the more expeditionary Air Force of today, and 2005 was chalk full of exercises and deployments.

Op STRUCTURE - South East Asia
January 3 - Within seven days of the devastating tsunami that struck South East Asia, Air Force personnel across the country went above and beyond the call of duty to plan, build and airlift Disaster Assistance Response Team personnel, equipment and humanitarian aid to victims of the tsunami.

Op ATHENA - South West Asia
March 23 - A Canadian CC-130 Hercules, flying with the Theatre Support Element of Task Force Kabul, flew its 5000th hour of airlift in support of Operation ATHENA, the Canadian commitment to the International Security Assistance Force (ISAF) in Afghanistan. The Air Force has been supporting the campaign against terrorism since 2001.

Op UNISON - United States
September 9 - The Air Force stepped up to help our American neighbours recover from the ravages of Hurricane Katrina last fall in a big way. The Air Force deployed various transport, tactical and maritime aircraft to support the overall Canadian Forces contribution which lasted approximately three weeks.

Op PLATEAU - Pakistan
October 18 - The Air Force delivered the first humanitarian aid to the people of Pakistan following the devastating earthquake there in October. Before it airlifted Disaster Assistance Response Team personnel later in the month, and coordinated the movement of DART equipment, a CC-130 Hercules carrying relief supplies landed in Pakistan within days of the quake and handed them over to Mr. Zahid Hamid, the Minister of State for Defence of Pakistan, under the watchful eye of Mr. David Collins, Canada's High Commissioner to Pakistan and LCol Geordie Elms, the Canadian Defence advisor.

Op CANOPY - Kashechewan
October 31 - A CC-130 Hercules

aircraft from 8 Wing Trenton delivered a water purification unit and its operating team, including Cpl Keith Villeneuve of 86 Airfield Support Unit (86ASU), to the Kashechewan reserve in northern Ontario after contaminated water was discovered. The detachment, comprised of several Air Force personnel, produced enough potable water to meet the community's daily needs during the operation. It also provided a reserve for the future.

Equipment

There was some outstanding news for the Air Force in 2005, including the announcement of new equipment and upgrades to existing kit.

February 18, 2005 - The second phase of the CF-18 Modernization Project kicked off at a special ceremony in Ottawa marking the next step in the $2.1 billion modernization upgrade of the Canadian fighter jet. The fighter jets will be equipped with a secure data and communications link that allows CF-18 crews to stay in constant contact with other jets, ground stations, and airborne warning and control systems (AWACS) to maintain awareness in their constantly evolving environment. New state-of-the-art colour display panels will provide pilots with improved access to flight data and communications. Their helmets will feature new visors that display readings from the instrument panel, so that pilots can maintain visual contact with a target and not look down. The aircraft will also be outfitted with a new missile countermeasures chaff/flare dispenser.

July 12 - The first CP-140 Aurora modernized with new electro-optics and infrared sensors rejoined the

Canadians to fill in as U.S. troop levels drop

by Gerry J. Gilmore
American Forces Press Service

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20, 2005 – The number of American troops serving in Afghanistan, currently about 19,000, is slated to decline by about 2,500 in 2006, a senior U.S. military officer said here.

Improved Afghan National Army and police forces and an expanded NATO contingent are enabling the reduced American military presence, Air Force Lt. Gen. Gene Renuart, the Joint Staff's director for strategic plans and policy, told the Pentagon Channel and American Forces Press Service.

"It's a good-news recognition of progress in Afghanistan, of success in our desires to build governance and improve the economies and to advance the quality of life of the Afghan people," Renuart said. Afghanistan's new parliament, the country's first elected legislature since 1969, met in session in Kabul Dec. 19.

Senior Afghan, U.S. and NATO leaders collaborated in the decision to reduce the U.S. troop presence, Renuart said.

The Afghan National Army now stands at about 27,000 troops, Renuart said, noting that about 55,000 Afghan police have been trained and deployed. Afghan army soldiers work closely with U.S. Special Forces during counterinsurgency operations, he said, while the police attend to local law enforcement in cities, towns and other municipalities.

"Both of those capabilities have improved to the point that they can assume more and more of the role of both working internal security and hometown security for the Afghan people," Renuart said.

NATO is slated to expand its International Security Assistance Force, consisting of troops from the United Kingdom, the Netherlands, Romania and Canada, into southern Afghanistan next year, Renuart said.

"NATO has done great work in the central Kabul area, as well as regional command North and West," Renuart said. "And their ability to now take on an expanded role in the south is also NATO's recognition that we're making great progress."

The 4th Brigade of the U.S. Army's 10th Mountain Division was notified in December 2004 that it would deploy to Afghanistan, Renuart said. The improving situation, he said, has negated the need to deploy the entire brigade. So only one battalion-sized task force of about 1,200 soldiers from that brigade will be sent to southern Afghanistan in mid-2006 to assist ISAF, Renuart said.

As part of next year's troop transition, American and Canadian forces, Renuart said, will relieve the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade that's now serving in southern Afghanistan.

The remainder of the 4th Brigade, Renuart said, will remain at Fort Polk, La., and will be ready to deploy to Afghanistan within 15 days if required.

The remaining 16,500 or so U.S. forces in Afghanistan, Renuart said, will stay focused on capturing and killing terrorists, primarily in the eastern portion of the country.

"The (U.S.) mission is clear," the three-star general said. "It is to continue to root out and find those elements of al Qaeda and Taliban and other insurgents within Afghanistan that could cause instability."

Renuart cautioned that terrorist activity conducted by al Qaeda and Taliban remnants in isolated parts of Afghanistan makes those areas very dangerous.

"But security is expanding, not retreating," Renuart said. The diminished Taliban, he said, haven't a chance of returning to power.

"The capabilities that NATO will bring into the country," Renuart said, "will more than ensure that any time the Taliban would try to take advantage of these transitions ... they'll be met with very capable forces able to defeat them at any turn."

"We're winning this, and it's because of their great effort that we're able to make these adjustments in cooperation with our friends the Afghans and with our friends from NATO."

Canada mourns the passing of one of country's few remaining veterans of the First World War

Ottawa (December 16, 2005) - On behalf of all Canadians, the Honourable Albina Guarnieri, Minister of Veterans Affairs, today expressed her condolences to the family of a Canadian First World War veteran, William "Duke" Procter, 106, who died December 15, 2005.

"The passing of Mr. Procter reminds us of how important it is to honour and remember those who have served our nation," said Minister Guarnieri. "Too soon, sadly, our country will no longer have veterans from the First World War. The Year of the Veteran is coming to an end but our debt of gratitude continues and we will never forget."

William Procter was born on his father's homestead at Mable Lake, British Columbia on August 18, 1899. As a child, he learned the trade of logging, which would become useful during his stint in the Armed Forces. Mr. Procter enlisted in March 1916 and was sent to England later that same year. Too young for active duty in the battlefields of France, he helped the war effort by working in a bush camp, cutting timbers for the tunnels at Vimy Ridge and elsewhere. Mr. Procter remained in England for three years.

At the end of November, Clarence (Clare) Laking, one of Canada's few remaining veterans of the First World War, passed away at age 106. With the passing of Mr. Procter and Mr. Laking, Canada has only three known surviving veterans of the First World War:

Lloyd Clemett, Toronto, ON

P. Dwight Wilson, Oshawa, ON

John F. Babcock, Spokane, WA

The CONTACT delivers news and information about 8 Wing / CFB Trenton; at home and around the world. We depend on you and our military community for articles, personal stories and photos. We work hard, with a limited staff, to bring you a quality weekly newspaper. You can help considerably by following these guidelines on preparing your submissions for the paper:

- Articles should be typed in upper and lower case and in plain black text. Don't worry about formatting with underlines, bolds, italics, colours, etc. Acronyms should be spelled out on first reference, and then abbreviated when referred to thereafter.
- Do not include clip-art or graphics within your typed pages. Additional graphics/logos may be sent as separate files.
- Articles may be mailed, e-mailed or delivered in person. Non e-mail submissions should be saved in rich text format (.rtf) and as "text only" on a 3.5" disk and accompanied by a hard copy of your article.
- Articles must include author's full name, unit and phone #.
- Wherever possible, photos should be included with your article. Include your name and caption on the back of each photo, and number multiple photos. Electronic photos should be saved in either a jpeg or tiff format at a high resolution, to ensure quality reproduction.

Jpeg-Maximum (8X10), 300 dpi

- Please label all disks and hard copies with article name, contact person and phone numbers, date.
- Articles must be received by Tuesday at noon prior to print date at The CONTACT office.

message from the Editor

The year 2005 was certainly a remarkable 12 months, not only for the Air Force in general, but for 8 Wing/CFB Trenton specifically.

As acknowledged throughout this issue of The Contact Newspaper, it was a busy year.

The list is impossibly long, and though we did our best, not every event, activity or accomplishment of note found its way onto our pages this week. If only we'd had more space to devote to 2005 milestones...

The following are just a few snippets selected from what really was a wonderful year:

Personnel and resources from here were involved with all the major Air Force operations--Op STRUCTURE, Op ATHENA, Op UNISON, Op PLATEAU and Op CANOPY.

8 Wing/CFB Trenton became the new home of the Canadian Forces Aerospace Warfare Centre, opened a beautiful new, state-of-the-art medical facility, was home to the Air Person of the Year (Sgt Deborah Hillier), saw the amalgamation of two proud squadrons, and looked on proudly when the long-awaited Halifax Bomber was unveiled amid great pomp and ceremony.

So as we look back proudly on 2005, we also look ahead to this new year, and we can only guess what the future holds. The only thing we can know with any certainty is that whatever challenges are placed in our path, 8 Wing/CFB personnel will surely rise to the occasion, with the consummate professionalism, compassion and dedication those we serve have come to expect.

1996 – Burly Sgt Earl Dawson is the Santa Claus of Sarajevo. The C-130 Hercules Load Master from 436 Squadron returned with triumphant mates on the last official flight of the Canadian Air Force's historic Bosnian airlift, Operation Air Bridge. Operation Air Bridge, spanning three years, was the longest humanitarian airlift in history and Canada played an integral role in the mission.

1986 – On the 19th of December, a Christmas party was held for ARC (Adult Rehabilitation Centre) Industries at 424 Transport and Rescue Squadron. The festivities started with a welcome given by LCol Mike Anglesey and a briefing by Maj Pete Fuller, along with a slide presentation on the squadron.

1976 – Canada's national war memorial on Ottawa's Confederation Square now has a new high-intensity illumination system, a gift from the Royal Canadian Legion marking the beginning of year-long observances of the organization's 50th anniversary. With songs of both world wars ringing out from the bells of the nearby peace tower and a Canadian Forces colour party and the central band in attendance.

fleet at 14 Wing Greenwood after successful integration of this leading edge surveillance technology.

November 22 – A process to acquire at least 16 new aircraft, valued at between $4-5 billion, including a 20-year in-service support contract, commenced as part of the Tactical Airlift Project. The new aircraft will replace the older model CC-130 Hercules that have been in service since the early 1960s.

People

In the most recent issue of his newsletter to Air Force stakeholders, Crew Brief, the Chief of the Air Staff, Lieutenant-General Steve Lucas, said "the Air Force is blessed with some of the most dedicated and highly skilled Canadians in its ranks. Here are just a few of those individuals as we look back over their accomplishments in 2005.

The Air Force Association of Canada handed out its annual awards in October in Red Deer, Alberta. The awards recognize the "best of the best" in the Air Force. Sergeant Deborah Hillier, an Aerospace Control Operator, was named Air Person of the Year for her extraordinary efforts in ensuring the Dispatch Centre supports Wing operations.

The Air Force Association of Canada named Sergeant Claude Dasyva, a Loadmaster with 435 Squadron in Winnipeg, and a full-time civilian police officer, Air Reservist of the Year for his enthusiasm, reliability and deportment.

Major Maryse Carmichael, the first female Snowbird pilot in Canada, now posted to 3 Wing Bagotville, was named one of the top 100 Most Powerful Women in Canada in the category of Trailblazer by the Women's Executive Network. An independent advisory board selected the winners in seven categories: Corporate Executives, Entrepreneurs, Public Sector Leaders, Trailblazers, Champions, Professionals and new this year, Future Leaders.

The first Aviation Systems Technicians to complete what has been dubbed the "new generation aircraft technician" course at the Canadian Forces School of Aerospace Technology and Engineering are now out of school and on the job. The new approach to training will result in a higher ratio of personnel being available at any given time to support the increasing operational tempo of our modern Air Force. The top student of the new AVN Tech course was Corporal Brian Edmond

Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II presented Canadian Air Force Major Ghislain Sauvé, Base Construction Engineering Officer at Canadian Forces Base Borden, with the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire (MBE) on November 2, 2005. Britain gave the rare honour to Maj Sauvé for his engineering expertise while on exchange with British forces in Jordan, Kuwait, Iraq and Afghanistan.

Her Excellency the Right Honourable Michaëlle Jean presented two Air Force Search and Rescue Technicians, Sgt Derek Rogers and MCpl Norm Penny, from 9 Wing Gander with the Star of Courage in December at Rideau Hall in Ottawa. The two were recognized for risking their lives to save four fishermen whose fishing vessel capsized off Newfoundland last year. Earlier, fellow crew members from 103 Squadron received a Chief of the Defence Staff commendation for their role in the rescue.

Air Force Transformation

2005 was a landmark year for the Air Force and the Canadian Forces. There was the release of the Defence Policy Statement, the announcement of $12.8 billion in new funding to the defence budget over the next five years, the launch of both Air Force and Canadian Forces transformation, and as previously mentioned, the promise of new kit on the horizon. All of these pieces when added together point to a transformed Canadian Forces, capable of delivering on the mission as never before. Here are but a few examples of Air Force transformation at work.

Lieutenant-Colonel Major Mike Hood, former Commanding Officer of 429 Squadron, 8 Wing Trenton, led his squadron's closeout ceremony this past summer. Fighter, Transport and Maritime Patrol squadrons were consolidated at 3 Wing Bagotville, 8 Wing Trenton and 14 Wing Greenwood in the first visible step in the transformation of the Air Force. 433 Squadron, 429 Squadron and 415 Squadron have merged with 425, 436 and 405 Squadrons at Bagotville, Trenton and Greenwood respectively. This consolidation resulted in more robust squadrons and provided necessary people to create the Canadian Forces Aerospace Warfare Centre.

A new centre of excellence, which will transform the way air power is used in a more integrated Canadian Forces, officially opened its doors in Trenton in October. The Canadian Forces Aerospace Warfare Centre, a think tank of sorts, will be the engine of change for the Air Force.

The Air Force has stepped up its involvement in what is perhaps the most visible sign of capability transformation across the Canadian Forces—uninhabited aerial vehicles (UAV). A new 60-person Tactical UAV Flight formed of personnel from 408 Tactical Helicopter Squadron, from Edmonton and 5e Régiment d'artillerie légère du Canada (5 RALC) from CFB Valcartier, conducted trials of Tactical UAVs last October in Wainwright, in preparation for their operational employment. The Air Force has also created a new section within the Directorate of Air Requirements to identify future UAV requirements of the Canadian Forces.

Volunteers.

They are the people who freely give their time to assist their fellow human beings. They are the backbone of their community. They are the glue that holds humanity together. They are full-time workers and part-time saints.

The Contact is always interested in writing or receiving articles on some of these tremendous volunteers, found right here at 8 Wing/CFB Trenton. If you donate your time to a local organization, or know someone else who does, please call Laurie McVicar at local 3978.

Some predictions for this new year

it's your Money

Garth Turner

So, here we are – peaking timidly over the ridge of rubble left from 2005, into the valley below which contains a shiny new year. What can we expect from the economy, investments, markets and governments? Hey, follow me. No problemo.

First, let's not forget what this current year brought – higher interest and mortgage rates. The highest energy and gas prices in history. A slowing economy. Political corruption, intrigue and an ongoing federal election. Lots of natural disasters amid warnings the global environment is officially fritzed. Soaring stock markets. The rise of China. A high-flying Canadian dollar and low-flying Conrad Black.

All in all, it was a memorable 12 months, but definitely not one of the better years in the last 10. More importantly, 2005 contained some trends and harbingers that give us a good glimpse of what is to come. So, here we go. Some stuff that I 100 per cent personally guarantee is going to happen:

(1) Interest rates will jump. Yes, the current prime rate of 5 per cent is up three-quarters of a point from just half a year ago, which has had a substantial impact on variable rate mortgages and the borrowing habits of tons of people – and there is more to come, kids. In fact, the Bank of Canada, worried about inflationary trends, the dollar, the US economy, energy and a host of other factors, will be upping the key rate at each opportunity. That means a prime of 6 per cent by this time next year, which – of course – represents a 20 per cent rise in the cost of a variable rate home loan.

(2) So, the next certainty is this: A stampede to lock in. Zillions of homeowners who have benefited nicely from having a VRM (variable rate mortgage) for the past half-decade (wisely following my advice), will increasingly be pulled into a fixed-rate deal. This is because the advantage of a VRM (lower payments) is being eroded by the rate rise, and secondly because the big banks are hot to get people on fixed rates. This locks in their own costs in a changeable rate environment and, to convince you to switch, will be offering some great deals over the next couple of months. Think hard and long about taking the plunge.

(3) The housing market will soften faster than anyone imagined. Hey, even one of the economics department of one of the big banks has started a "bubble watch" newsletter, just a few months after publishing a report saying no bubble existed. Well, as I said here a 1-o-n-g time ago, it does. And it is going to be belching air quicker than anyone has suggested. As rates rise, affordability falls and suddenly people who paid $1 million for houses worth a heck of a lot less will be wondering who they are ever going to sell to for the same price. The answer: Nobody.

(4) The stock market is going to be hot, hot, hot. Why? Simply because as the real estate market turns cold, billions of dollars that flowed there looking for a good return and little risk will be flowing back out again, in search of exactly the same thing. With a vibrant energy sector, with a pivotal election behind it, and with a strengthening American economy, our financial markets will build on the success of last year, and head straight into uncharted territory.

(5) This will be the year the RRSP comes back. Shunned now for almost five years, this once-popular investment vehicle will start seeing billions flowing into its tax-sheltered environment, to be invested once again in growth assets like mutual funds. Why? Because all those silly Boomers, who thought real estate was the be-all and end-all of financial nirvana, are now starting to push 60 years old and realize they have diddly when it comes to liquid financial assets. When you need cash, after all, you can't just sell off an extra bedroom or a piece of your backyard. But you can liquidate some stocks or a piece of your mutual fund portfolio. Some eternal investment principles will be remembered again.

So I am calling for a watershed year, one in which a lot of popular logic will be questioned, and found wanting. The smart money has already started to move out of over-inflated real estate, and into financial assets. People are consolidating debt, replacing non-deductible debt with that on which interest is a legitimate tax expense, as they are rediscovering the inherent long-term value of stocks and the wisdom of hiring smart portfolio managers.

Like every year, it will be a good one if you know what's coming.

IT'S A FACT...

The tradition of using a baby to signify the new year has roots in ancient Greece.

Early Egyptians also used a baby as a symbol of rebirth.

Early Christians tried to stop the tradition of using a baby to symbolize the new year, but its popularity as a symbol of rebirth outlasted the church's attempts to change the tradition. Using an image of a baby with a New Years banner was brought to early America by the Germans.

HOROSCOPES

ASTRO ADVICE WEEKLY By Eugenia Last
January 8 - January 14

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Look into career or moneymaking deals on the 8th and 9th. Do the groundwork and research. You should be able to find a better place of employment or an opportunity that will allow you to make extra cash. You aren't likely to give up on the 10th and 11th until you get what you want. You will be strong-willed and very stubborn. Prepare for the unexpected on the 12th, 13th and 14th. You can count on someone creating emotional frustrations for you. Don't let it confuse you. Anger will only lead to more worry and trouble. Tackle one thing at a time. A good attitude and less frantic behavior will help considerably.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A chance to visit someone or to attend a function that interests you should be in your plans on the 8th and 9th. Let the person you love most know exactly how you feel. It's time to set the record straight. You will discover who is on your side. A promotion or changing jobs is in the stars on the 10th and 11th. You will have a chance to partner with someone you think has a lot happening. Be careful: Bragging does not necessarily translate to accomplishment. Check out the credentials.

You won't be able to trust everyone on the 12th, 13th and 14th but, as long as you make your own decisions, everything will turn out surprisingly well.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Money deals should be formulated on the 8th and 9th. The chance to get involved in something you believe in will help you put things in perspective. Don't let your emotions lead you in the wrong direction. Keep moving on the 10th and 11th or you will end up sending all the wrong signals to the people you deal with. You'll be emotional, so stick to your plan regardless of what is going on around you. You will question what you are doing on the 12th, 13th and 14th. Take this as a sign that you should look into new ways to earn a living or develop more skills for the workplace. Money matters can be resolved if you collect or pay an old debt.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Get involved, be a participant, make your vote count on the 8th and 9th. A creative idea can turn into a moneymaker. Changes or renovations to your residence will pay off. Be willing to compromise. Not everything will be out in the open on the 10th and 11th. You may have to make a few changes in order for things to work out. A partnership will make you think about your future. Tell it like it is on the 12th, 13th and 14th and you will feel better about yourself and your future. Don't let anyone lead you on or take you for granted. You may end up alone but you will be better off. Don't worry about the past. Change the climate of a relationship by being supportive.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Don't let anything get you down on the 8th and 9th pertaining to work or your position. You have to put the past behind you. A little rest and relaxation is in order, so don't deny yourself the pleasure and company of your friends or lover. Uncertainties may cause you to move in the wrong direction on the 10th and 11th, especially where work and home are concerned. If you aren't positive, don't do it. Saying little but doing the best job possible will speak for itself. Try to keep things out in the open on the 12th, 13th and 14th. Ask questions if you are uncertain of the way someone feels or what he or she might be doing or saying. Don't display anger or disappointment.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take a bit of time to do something nice for yourself on the 8th and 9th. Shopping or pampering yourself will put you in a better frame of mind. A new hobby will bring you in contact with someone who shares your interests. You can mix business with pleasure on the 10th and 11th and get a foothold on a future position that will bring you far more clout. A residential move may be necessary. This is a great time to make changes. You will be the person who has all the solutions on the 12th, 13th and 14th. You can ask for favors and proceed with something that you feel strongly about. This is the perfect time to launch an idea.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Not everyone will agree with you on the 8th and 9th. Take a second look at your options. You may not like the idea of making a move or change but, if it can help you out financially, consider doing so. Being outspoken may get you into trouble on the 10th and 11th but, once the dust has settled, you will be able to go about your business clear of mind and feeling much better about your future. Don't let anyone who challenges you get away with cheap shots. Don't start something you can't finish on the 12th, 13th and 14th. Let others do what they want and avoid confrontations. Focus on your own dreams or experiences. Don't let your emotions influence your decisions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A personal change is headed your way on the 8th and 9th. Someone new or someone from your past will influence your life. Consider your motives before making a move. Reevaluate your current relationship first. An open mind will help immeasurably on the 10th and 11th. You will have a good handle on what will and won't work, although you may have to argue your point to stop someone else from taking things in the wrong direction. Your involvement with friends, relatives or neighbors on the 12th, 13th and 14th will be eye opening. You will learn something that will help you define what you want to do in the future. You will feel invigorated if you contribute knowledge.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Spend a little time working toward your goal on the 8th and 9th. This is an ideal time to get busy with professional and financial endeavors. Do whatever it takes to ensure you can get ahead and make more money. Contracts or financial agreements will not be honored if you don't get them in writing on the 10th and 11th. Know exactly what you get before you commit to something. Emotions will be unstable in a personal relationship. Be creative in the way you handle people. Your original plans or dreams can be met on the 12th, 13th and 14th. Money deals should be made. Don't leave anything to chance -- take care of all transactions yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A chance to do something special on the 8th and 9th for the person you are closest to will make you feel good about your future. Focus on home, family and taking care of personal business. Don't hesitate to be assertive. Sudden changes regarding your friendships and money are likely to occur on the 10th and 11th. Don't be too quick to trade someone or something in for a newer model. You'll only be going from one set of problems to another. Don't feel obligated to make a decision on the 12th, 13th and 14th before you are ready. An emotional matter will leave you feeling uncertain about your present living arrangements.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Don't fool yourself on the 8th and 9th into thinking everyone is on your side. Keep your thoughts and plans to yourself for the time being. An argument is sure to break out if you are too outspoken about what you want and expect. If you view things with curiosity and offer innovative input on the 10th and 11th, you will attract a lot of attention. Travel or dealing with authority figures will result in problems. Solve problems yourself if you want to keep your reputation intact. Stay out of the line of fire on the 12th, 13th and 14th. Don't make waves and, most of all, refuse to get involved in someone else's fight. A health issue should be dealt with before it escalates.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Everything is looking good on the 8th and 9th especially any involvements with people who can help you get ahead or support your actions. Take part in a moneymaking investment. A partnership will pay off far better than you imagined. Don't let things get to you on the 10th and 11th even if you feel you have been put on the spot. You will have added discipline so put it into whatever you are trying to accomplish and you will excel. A chance to learn something new will aid you in the future. Do things a little differently on the 12th, 13th and 14th and you will make a lasting impression. You can expect to come into money. An idea you have should be expanded upon.
