Wing Commander's Golf tourney gets United Way campaign going

By Ross Lees

Change for the United Way of Quinte started Sept. 8 at the Wing Commander's Golf Tournament at Roundel Glen golf course.

With an intended goal of raising $10,000, the tournament blew the goal out of the water when it raised $11, 468.16 to putt the United Way campaign into gear.

Colonel Sean Friday, in starting the tournament with a brief speech, noted the new slogan "Change starts here" was apropos.

"It's a great day to help the community," he said as he urged base staff to become involved in the United Way campaign in whatever way they could, including getting involved in the events by volunteering or by making donations.

"Be a part of the process," he said. "A lot of people in the community need our help."

Those sentiments were music to the ears of United Way campaign executive director Judi Gilbert, who later called the Wing Commander's golf tournament "a fabulous event."

"It seemed like there was huge support for the event," Gilbert told The Contact Monday. "It was well organized and a great day. CFB's contribution to our campaign is critical," she stated.

The new executive director is amazed by the support of people who may not be in the Quinte area for a long period of time.

"It's really wonderful with how these folks might only be here for a short period of time but how they embrace our community and organizations," she noted. "It speaks volumes about those people and how they continue to contribute."

Gilbert sees that enthusiasm and commitment coming from the top down, noting that Col Friday's temperament lends itself well to this kind of event.

"I enjoyed playing golf with him that day and I found him very approachable and

A salute to the 8 Wing and CF communities

By Maureen Piercy, HCol

It's not every day that you have the opportunity to see the power and skill of the Canadian Forces in action. During the aftermath of the tragic Aug. 20 First Air crash in Resolute Bay, Nunavut, I had that experience.

I have the distinct privilege of serving as the Honorary Colonel of 8 Air Communication and Control Squadron at 8 Wing. The unit comprises highly-skilled personnel - the Gypsies can set up a network-enabled controlled air field almost anywhere on the planet regardless of weather and environment. Recent deployments included the Vancouver Olympics, the G8 Summit; the Haiti earthquake relief effort, and Operation Nanook, Canada's annual northern sovereignty exercise based in Resolute Bay.

On that Saturday, I flew as guest crew on C-17 701 with 429 Bison Herd Squadron members AC Captain Steve Radvak, co-pilot Captain Tony Lowther, new 429 Sqn member Captain Nathan Trescher, and their colleagues loadmaster MCpl Wes Ramsay, loadmaster trainee Cpl Tyler Ashbee and our technical crew member Private Huy Dang. 8 Wing joins Quinte West in celebrating Celtic heritage

Pomp and ceremony was at it's finest Friday night at Centennial Park during the Scottish Irish Festival Military Tattoo.

By Lt Christopher Daniel, Wing Public Affairs Officer

Colonel Sean Friday, 8 Wing Commander, joined the community in celebrating the 21st Annual Trenton Scottish-Irish Festival (TSIF) during its opening ceremonies on Sept. 10 at Centennial Park, Trenton.

"I'm glad that clann 8 Wing is having fun today together with clann Quinte," said Col Friday. "We appreciate this vibrant relationship between 8 Wing and the community as it is important to us."

The festival is a celebration of Celtic heritage, which is made possible by the TSIF committee members and the generous support of sponsors and friends.

"Thank you to all our partners who made this year's festival a success," said Beth Cleaton, 2011 TSIF chairperson. "Each and every year the committee works hard to put on a bigger and better festival and this year's event is sure to impress."

The event featured a festive parade of military and civilian bands from all over Quinte region, including Pipes and Drums from 8 Wing, 413 Wing, Oshawa Legion, Port Hope and District Royal Canadian Legion Branch 30, Napanee and District Caledonia, ANAF Unit 201, the Hastings and Prince Ed-

Tour de Force has wind at their backs

By Ross Lees

Brigadier-General Fred Lewis had the chance to help raise money for the children of fallen Canadian Forces personnel Monday.

BGen Lewis joined Canada Company, a charitable business group, in kicking off a unique seven day bike marathon challenge tagged '2nd Annual North American Moving Services Tour de Force' to raise money for children of fallen Canadian Forces personnel Monday. North American Moving Services Canada is a major participant and the driving force behind this unique journey which began at the Air Canada Centre Monday morning for 44 riders and will culminate on Sept. 18 in Montréal, Quebec.

"We are honoured to partner with Canada Company in the second annual Tour de Force in support of the families and children of our Canadian military," said North American Moving Services' President, Rob Grohn. "This opportunity allows us and all the riders and sponsors who make this possible to demonstrate our gratitude for the service of our Canadian Forces members," he added.

Grohn and four other riders from North American Moving Services (NAMS) arrived at CFB Trenton at 12:45 p.m. Tuesday after what they called a "very good ride" along the lakeshore that morning. Joining Grohn in Trenton were Joe Gagnon, Jennifer McNaughton, Scott Mackie and Kevin Devereux.

The five riders had been scheduled to participate in tandem parachute jumps with the Canadian Forces Sky-Hawks, but that event had to be cancelled because of high winds. Several other events were substituted, including a visit to the National Air Force Museum of Canada and a pick-up floor hockey game with the Belleville Bulls Junior A hockey team.

The 44 riders plus BGen Lewis were given a special police escort through Toronto so they did not have to stop at any red lights, Grohn told The Contact Tuesday.

"It was a great start and an honour to have Brigadier-General Lewis ride with us," he said. "That was such beautiful scenery along the lake shore and we had the wind at our backs. It's a good thing, too, because that ride was 15 kilometres longer than we were told."

The group of 44 riders are travelling through locations in Ontario (Toronto, Newcastle, Oshawa, Trenton, Kingston, Brockville and Cornwall) and Quebec (Pointe Claire and Montréal).

The Tour de Force is divided into seven 65 to 127 km stages, concluding every day with community celebrations and some special activities planned by Canadian Forces. Money raised will support the children of military families by providing funding for programs such as Camps for Kids of Deployed Soldiers and the Canada Company Scholarship Fund.

"I applaud the numerous supporters and participants who are donating their time and energy to such a worthy cause," said Blake Goldring, Founder and Chairman of Canada Company and Chairman and CEO, AGF Management Limited. "It is an honour for me to take part in this bike marathon and to see the support given by all the local communities to the families of those who serve," he added.

Trenton blood clinic always approaches target goals

By Ross Lees

Gary Donovan of Trenton is one of the reasons the Canadian Blood Services (CBS) likes coming to Trenton.

A former military engineer, he is now a civilian working at the water pollution control plant at CFB Trenton – but he continues to give blood. At the clinic at Yukon Galley ASTRA on Monday, he was making his 75th donation.

"I've been donating for 30-odd years," Mr. Donovan told The Contact.

Because he is ex-military and because he did go overseas at different times, he has had to interrupt his blood donation at various times, but he always gets back to it. He retired in Trenton in 2005 after 26 years in the Air Force.

"We always do well at the Trenton clinic," notes charge nurse Coralee Brooks of CBS.

While they only approach 50 per cent of booked appointments for this clinic, they always get a lot of walk-ins to boost the donations. "For that reason, we always get close to our target goal for units."

This clinic continues to run smoothly, she notes, adding they are using up-to-date equipment which speeds up the process and increases the quality of product donated.

Nurse Brooks said the need for blood is ongoing and each donation collected at the clinic has the potential to save three lives.

Gary Donovan of Trenton made his 75th donation of blood Monday at the blood donor clinic at Yukon Galley ASTRA.

Provincial general election: What Canadian Forces (CF) electors should know

Ontario will be holding its 40th provincial general election on Oct. 6, 2011. For this election, Elections Ontario is offering eligible Ontarians a longer voting period than in any previous provincial general election. There are 28 days to vote in person by special ballot at your local returning office between Sept. 8 and Oct. 5. Also, there are 10 days of advance polls between Sept. 21 and Sept. 30 for people who cannot vote on Election Day.

This increase in available voting days is especially useful for CF personnel, whose duties may take them away from their riding on Election Day. If you are a CF member who will be outside of your riding for the entire voting period, you can still vote by applying for a special ballot kit to vote by mail. Voting by special ballot is a two-part process. First, you must complete a special ballot application, which can be obtained from your local returning office, downloaded from www.elections.on.ca or requested by calling 1-855-523-5932 (TTY service is also available at 1-888-292-2312). Collect calls will be accepted for CF personnel outside Canada and the United States. The special ballot application must be submitted, along with a copy of a piece of identification, through one of the following options:

Mail: Elections Ontario, Attention: Special Ballot, 51 Rolark Drive, Toronto ON M1R 3B1, Canada
Email: sb@elections.on.ca
Fax: 1-888-483-4448

The deadline to submit your application to Elections Ontario to vote by mail using special ballot is at 6 p.m. ET or 5 p.m. CT on Sept. 30, 2011. When your application has been approved, you will receive your special ballot kit by mail, which includes information on where to send your ballot, as well as the ballot itself. Your vote must be received by Elections Ontario by 6 p.m. ET on Oct. 6, 2011 in order for your vote to be counted.

“Our mission is to make voting easy for everyone, including CF electors, whose responsibilities often take them away from their riding during the voting period,” said Greg Essensa, Chief Electoral Officer of Ontario.

For more information, please visit www.elections.on.ca. This website allows you to confirm that you are on the voters list; find out which of the 107 electoral districts you live in, and look up past election results. It also provides detailed information on where, when, and how to vote. You can also send any questions to Elections Ontario via email at info@elections.on.ca.

On Oct. 6, have your say, get out and vote!

New MP's get a taste of military life at 8 Wing

By Lt. A.N. McKinley

Four of Canada's newest parliamentarians got a taste of what military life is like at 8 Wing last week. Participants of the Canadian Forces Parliamentary Program, Members of Parliament (MP) Tarik Brahmī, Christine Moore, Dany Morin, and Rathika Sitsabaiesan donned flight suits and were whisked to the heart of the action.

During three three-day visit to CFB Trenton, these members of the official opposition were treated to briefings about construction at 8 Wing and flights in the King Air, the CC-150 Polaris and the CH-146 Griffon. Each happily discovered an affinity for flying as they all successfully landed the CC-130 Hercules simulator at 426 Squadron.

Dany Morin, MP for Chicoutimi-Le-Fjord, says "Bagotville is in my riding and so I find it very interesting to visit an Air Force base. I would like to maintain the strong link between our community and CFB Bagotville."

Christine Moore, is quite familiar with the Canadian Forces as she is a past serving medical technician with the 52e Ambulance de Campagne, in Sherbrooke, QC. She especially liked the flight in the Griffon and seeing the medical equipment that the Search and Rescue Technicians use.

Visiting the Aerospace and Telecommunications Engineering Support Squadron (ATESS) is where Tarik Brahmī felt at home. The MP for St-Jean, QC, and member of the Standing Committee on National Defence, Tarik was very interested in learning about defence issues, especially those surrounding the use of technology.

Other stops on the tour included the Military Family Resource Centre and the National Air Force Museum of Canada. Rathika Sitsabaiesan, the first ever Tamil Member of Parliament, and the official critic on post-secondary education says, "It was my first exposure to the Canadian Forces and it struck me that people seemed very happy and are proud of the work that they do."

This visit from the New Democratic Party Parliamentarians falls on the heels of a visit from four Conservative MPs, Cheryl Gallant, Parm Gill, Joe Daniel and Harold Albrecht and two NDP members, Bruce Hyer and Mike Sullivan a week previous. All were extended a warm welcome by hosts Maj Gavin Crouch and Capt Willem Hadders from 437 and 426 Squadrons respectively.

The Canadian Forces Parliamentary Program (CFPP) is an initiative that was developed to allow Members of Parliament and Senators to gain first-hand experience about the Army, the Navy and the Air Force.

(Below) Member's of Parliament Rathika Sitsabaiesan, Christne Moor, Dany Morin and Tarik Brahmī patiently wait for their flight aboard the CC-150 Airbus on the ramp last week as part of their visit to 8 Wing with the Canadian Forces Parliamentary Program.

ward Regiment, Brighton Legion Highlanders, and Rob Roy Pipe Band and Highland Dancers.

Formed in 1963, the 8Wing Pipes and Drums is a Canadian Forces Pipe Band whose primary role is to support 8 Wing and its lodger units in ceremonial and official functions. The band has thrilled audiences from all over the world in various international tattoo festivals.

The community had a blast at the festival. Among the many featured entertainment were renditions of Celtic music and high energy performances of McGilly Highland Dancers, Quinte Irish Dancers, and Belleville Scottish Country Dancers.

There were display booths, a food pavilion, and a 'market-place' where people could buy traditional Celtic souvenirs and tartans. There were also fun activities for kids such as face painting at the Military Family Resource Centre kiosk and a small petting area for farm animals.

Friday night, the community came out in large numbers to witness the pomp and ceremony of the Military Tattoo at Centennial Park.

tasked to the Op Nanook site at Resolute Bay. Senior 8 Wing leadership had approved, and my squadron CO Major Corey Crosby had arranged for me to connect with members of my squadron.

We were transporting military medical personnel and equipment, as well as civilian stakeholders, all scheduled to be involved in the Major Air Disaster Simulation Exercise, which is an annual part of OP Nanook.

Our 429 Sqn crew impressed me immensely with their high levels of proficiency, intelligence, and seamless teamwork. They were also very patient answering my many questions when circumstances allowed.

As we approached Resolute Bay for our landing, the day took a tragic turn as we learned that a civilian aircraft had crashed a half-hour earlier.

The events which followed - the flights, the air-based and on-ground response to this tragedy with its enormous impact on the Resolute Bay community and far beyond, and our airlift of survivors to Iqaluit - provided many vivid examples of the superb professionalism, skill and capability, dedication and teamwork - and compassion - of our CF members and the CF organization.

The presence of military medical staff and equipment, including those on our flight, was nothing short of miraculous in allowing for immediate response and support. My 8ACCS colleagues were very involved with securing the crash site and the rescue and recovery work which followed.

Our return journey became a medevac mission, transporting the three survivors - including a seven-year-old girl - to Iqaluit for further medical treatment.

Like many Canadians, I am always very proud to see and learn about our superbly-trained and skilled military members. But I was just as struck on that Saturday by the attention and compassion CF members showed - for the survivors, for the community, and for each other. These are difficult roles to be in on such days. Our CF members see - and are expected to be trained to cope with - situations we can hardly imagine. The sight of our AC walking out of the back of the C-17 carrying the overnight bag of our young patient's grandmother and talking with her; the discussions of the pilot and co-pilot planning our return flight about flying and braking in order to minimize discomfort to our patients; one of my colleagues talking about the difficult life of aboriginal Canadians in the north; the medical staff rushing off the plane when we arrived in order to begin working - these will all remain with me.

I am honoured to have flown with our 429 Bison Herd colleagues on board this awe-inspiring aircraft. As always, I feel tremendous pride in my affiliation with my 8ACCS colleagues and all of the exceptional members of the Royal Canadian Air Force, and our Canadian Forces. It is no wonder that our Canadian Forces members and teams are sought after to assist around the world.

MFRC participates in Trenton's Scottish-Irish Festival

By Lt Christopher Daniel, Wing Public Affairs Officer

It was a sunny and pleasant Saturday. Families were having fun at the Scottish-Irish Festival in Centennial Park, checking-out the different booths including the display kiosk of the Military Family Resource Centre (MFRC).

"This event is an awesome opportunity to once again partner with our friends and neighbours in the Quinte West region," said Deanna Lewis, MFRC Special Events Coordinator. "Centennial Park is a beautiful location for a celebration and the weather today is just fabulous."

The MFRC kiosk offered information materials on their support programs for the military community. There was the "Troops Letter Box" where people can send post cards and morale notes to deployed soldiers. The "Support the Troops" memorabilia was also available for sale and there was literature for military families to help them cope with the challenges of military life.

"We participate regularly in local events and festivities," said Lewis. "The year 2012 will mark the 20th anniversary of the MFRC's service to military families at CFB Trenton and we take a proactive approach in reaching out to them."

The most popular attraction of the MFRC kiosk was the face painting for all ages. There were four volunteer face-painters and both kids and adults were having fun waiting to have cute designs painted on them.

"We estimate that our volunteer face artists painted easily about 100 people, young and old," said Lewis. "It was a successful day at the park and we look forward to every opportunity to connect to the community as a representation of the support for military members and their families."

The MFRC serves military families through various projects such as employment assistance and career development, personal development courses, second language training, children and youth programs years 0-17, tickets and tour information, and programs to support families for deployed members.

"We take pleasure and pride in helping our military families," said Lewis.

For more floor plans, visit www.jenish.com

This handsome three-bedroom family home is designed so that the double garage, set at a right angle to the main living space, presents a pleasant view from the street and contains the front garden in a courtyard-like area.

Natural light will fill the foyer, thanks to a window well above. Directly ahead is the open-plan great room, with a wood-burning fireplace and french doors to a partly covered sun deck. The fireplace is flanked by built-in entertainment units.

The dining area includes a built-out buffet that will be particularly welcome when guests are invited for dinner. The kitchen is separated from the great room and dining area by a work island, fitted with a double sink, and a three-seat eating bar. A corner pantry will provides extra storage space and the L-shaped counter configuration promises efficiency.

Adjacent to the kitchen, through an archway, are the laundry room, a mud room with a coat closet and access to the double garage, and a two-piece lavatory. The double garage features a bayed-out window that looks out on the front garden, as well as access to the side garden.

The spacious master suite, located at the back of the home for privacy, includes a walk-in closet. The toilet and shower stall are separated from the rest of the ensuite, which includes double basins and a soaker tub with a tiled surround tucked in next to a window overlooking the back garden.

The second and third bedrooms share a split bathroom, where the toilet is separated by a sliding door. Bedroom No. 3 features a window seat.

All ceilings measure nine feet high.

A U-shaped stairway between the foyer and the third bedroom leads to an unfinished basement, included in the plans.

This home measures 58 feet wide and 79 feet, four inches deep, for a total of 2,104 square feet on the main floor.

Sept. 18 - Battle of Britain Parade

Each year a parade is held in September. This parade is held to commemorate the Battle of Britain and honour the members of the Air Force who died during this battle and other battles fought by the Air Force. There is a reason why the Battle of Britain has been selected for symbolic honouring of the dead heroes of the Air Force. The Battle of Britain was entirely an air battle and was one of the most decisive battles in all history. In a brief span of raids during the autumn of 1940, our Commonwealth Air Forces defeated the German Luftwaffe. It is almost certain that Great Britain would have been invaded if the Battle of Britain had been lost. The RCAF is proud of the active part it played in this historic battle.

Martial arts registration begins

September is registration month at 8 Wing Trenton Martial Arts Club.

Now in its 39th year, the club offers one of the widest selections of martial arts on any base in the country. In-depth instruction is provided for military personnel and their dependents in the following disciplines - Karate, Jiu Jitsu (Japanese and Brazilian), Tai Chi and related arts such as Chi Kung and I Chuan, and a wide variety of self defense programs from women's self defense to a unique, highly aerobic form of continuous self defense sparring. Through affiliated clubs in the area, you can also access other traditional martial arts such as My Jong Law Horn Kung Fu, Hsing I Kung Fu, Okinwan and Chinese weaponry, Muay Thai, Kali, Wado Ryu Karate and Kenjutsu.

Our teaching staff of male and female Black Belts is certified by the Canadian Jiu Jitsu Council, the Kai Shin Karate Association and the Snow Tiger Martial Arts Association. The club's chief instructor holds an 8th Degree Black Belt in Jiu Jitsu, a 6th Degree Black Belt in Karate and is an instructor in three systems of traditional Chinese Kung Fu. He was inducted into the World Black Belt Hall of Fame in 1991. The club trains upstairs in Building 32 (The Aircrew Selection Centre Bldg behind headquarters). Enter via the north side door.

Adult classes take a no-nonsense, intense approach, as close as possible to the reality "war art" training without sacrificing any aspects of personal safety. You'll notice your level of fitness improve dramatically as will your self defense skills.

Our renowned children's classes strongly emphasize all aspects of character-building - learning self respect, respecting others, honesty, working hard toward a goal and standing up for yourself without being a bully. This is a reason why our program is lauded by parents, educators and law enforcement agencies. The Karate Kids Don't Do Drugs campaign was created by our club.

committed to the United Way," Gilbert said.

The event got the campaign off on the right foot, according to Gilbert.

"We're ahead of the pace for this time last year," she said, adding they had a very successful official launch Friday evening while her team looked forward to the Quinte West launch at Legion Branch 110 Sept. 13.

Gilbert said she was excited about an overall positive feeling in the community about the campaign, as United Way relies on the fundraising to meet the needs of the community at large. This year's fundraising goal is $1.65 million. According to Gilbert, $1.63 million was raised last year.
