429 Transport Squadron prepares to unveil the artwork of a Globemaster III

By Martin Durkin

What started out as a competition within 429 Transport (T) Squadron, the "Bisons", back in early December, is now nearing completion.

"Well it's the Squadrons 75th anniversary, and it's something of a big milestone for a squadron," said creator of the artwork Steve Rodych, Field Services Technical Representative for Boeing Canada Operations.

Knowing that the bison is the squadron symbol and that Canada is about to celebrate its 150th birthday, Rodych says the merging of the two symbols on the tail just seemed to be the perfect idea. Because the jet was down for maintenance, the timing also happened to be fortuitous.

Once the idea on paper won, it was then in the hands of three members to physically bring the artwork to life. Master Corporal (MCpl.) Chara and Corporal (Cpl.) Jacob Abusow of 429 Transport (T) Squadron who worked with Cpl. Leblanc from 8 Air Maintenance Squadron (AMS) from April 19 until just a few days ago; working 14 hour days.

Cpl. Leblanc,Cpl Jacob Abusow and MCpl. Chara stand beside their almost finished work excited to show off the final product

"It felt like two months crammed into one," said MCpl. Chara. "It became a love hate relationship almost, you hated having to work so many hours, but you have something you can truly be proud of in the end."

By the end of the project, 700 hours; equivalent to 22 days of work, will be put into the creation and only four days off will have been taken during the project. 155 hours alone went into sanding, 20 gallons of paint was sprayed over 1100 square feet of surface. From stenciling, to machine cutting, sanding and painting, the three men will be able to stand back and look up, knowing it was their hands that created a work of art which will stay on the jet until June of next year.

The trio acknowledge two important factors that has helped them get through the project. First and foremost, it was their significant others, at home, who knew they were not going to be coming through the front door for supper, or enjoy some weekends, and the second factor was their working chemistry.

"My wife understands," quipped Cpl. Abusow, "but I had to buy her a Dyson for Mother's Day."

"When you're working this closely for this long, and its 1 a.m., you have to get along, and we did, we could bounce ideas off one another, and we could work as a team, that was a major factor in this project, just working together as a team, "said Cpl. Chara.

This will be the first full tail art to be applied to any Canadian CC-177 Globemaster III.

Housekeepers of CFS Alert

Story by Lieutenant James Heard, CFS Alert Projects Officer

We would like to introduce the Canadian Forces Station (CFS) Alert Housekeeping staff Anne Wilson, Markosie Peter, Nick Downhill, and the Housekeeping and Food Services Supervisor Anne Marcoux.

The three housekeeping staff work six days a week in order to maintain the cleanliness of all the station common areas, walkways, washrooms, and the two station gyms. The housekeepers also clean personal rooms after staff clear out and again before new staff arrive at Alert. The housekeepers start each day by cleaning the accommodations areas and bathrooms and then work on the common areas throughout the day. The regular cleaning is extremely important in maintaining the health of all the station staff, as all the common areas and washrooms are shared spaces.

Working at CFS Alert requires the station staff to be flexible with their schedules, as the timings for plane arrivals and departures are often impacted by weather and other challenges. As such, the housekeepers must coordinate with the other station staff in order to stay on top of these changes. As with all of the other sections and workshops at Alert, the housekeepers must also carefully forecast their cleaning supply requirements, as they cannot resupply between the weekly sustainment flights to the station.

When asked about what she enjoys most about working at CFS Alert, Anne Marcoux says that she enjoys working with the other staff at the station and building close friendships with them. Anne Wilson has been working for the Canadian Armed Forces as a cleaner for 20 years, including 6 years at CFS Alert, and considers herself the "Station Mom." She also feels that her favourite aspect of CFS Alert is the atmosphere of comradery and mutual care. All of the station staff deeply appreciate their dedicated work.

Long time Tn/RCEME member retires after 54 years of service

By Scott MacDonald

Grant Macdonald joined the original Royal Canadian Air Force (RCAF) on June 1, 1960 in Halifax, Nova Scotia. After graduating basic training in Saint-Jean Quebec, he proceeded to Gimli, Manitoba for his Contact training and then Aylmer, Ontario for his trades training as an operator-mechanic of mobile equipment, now known as mobile support equipment operator (MSE OP).

Throughout his career he was posted to Greenwood Nova Scotia, Metz France, Lahr Germany, Sydney Cape Breton, Armstrong Ontario, Trenton Ontario, Canadian Forces School of Administration and Logistics (CFSAL) Borden Ontario, Debert Nova Scotia and retired after 27 years of dedicated service during his second posting to Trenton as the Warrant (WO) in charge (IC) of the general purpose vehicle (GPV), in 1987.

With an extensive background in heavy equipment Grant took a position as a permanent seasonal MDO-6 in November 1989 at Heavy Equipment section in Trenton, where he served another 27 years as a civilian employee.

His wealth of knowledge, experience and quick wit will surely be missed within the Wing Transportation and Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineering (Tn/RCEME) squadron. He was a mentor to so many young MSE operators, as well as his son (Scott MacDonald) who has worked side by side with his father for the past 10 years.

After 54 years of loyal and dedicated service to the Canadian Armed Forces (CAF) and the Public Service of Canada, Grant retired this spring. His future plans are to enjoy his retirement by attending jamboree's, traveling and logging hours on his flight simulator.

Trenton MFRC named event Title Sponsor of CSBK Opener at Shannonville

Story submitted

The Trenton Military Family Resource Centre (MFRC) will serve as the title sponsor for the opening round of the Mopar Canadian Superbike (CSBK) Championship national motorcycle roadracing tour at Shannonville Motorsport Park (SMP) on May 26, 27 and 28 2017.

The Superbike Challenge presented by the Trenton MFRC will take place at Shannonville Motorsport Park, located east of Belleville, Ontario, just south of Highway 401. The CSBK National will utilize the perimeter, 2.45 kilometer, nine turn "Pro" track layout. 2017 not only marks Canada's 150th Anniversary, but it's also the 40th anniversary of motorcycle racing at SMP, originally known as Nelson International Raceway.

The Trenton MFRC, celebrating 25 years, was incorporated in 1992 to help military members at 8 Wing achieve operational readiness by enhancing quality of life and enriching the military experience for families.

"The opportunity for us to be the title sponsor of the Mopar Canadian Superbike Championship race weekend was presented to us last week by a donor who chooses to remain anonymous. We were more than delighted to accept this generous offer as it provides an opportunity for us to share the kinds of support we offer to military families as well as allowing us to offer half price tickets to CAF members and first responders." said Devon Taylor, Trenton MFRC Communications & Development Coordinator.

In addition to military personnel and first responders with official I.D. being able to enjoy a family-friendly day at the Superbike Challenge with half price admission, children under 12 will be admitted free of charge and free camping is also available.

Ticket pricing for the opening round of Mopar CSBK at SMP is as follows; $10 on Friday, $15 on Saturday, $30 on Sunday, or $50 for the whole weekend.

Aboriginal Day at 8 Wing Trenton a chance for local students to learn about Canadian Heritage

Story by Martin Durkin

Aboriginal Awareness Day at 8 Wing Trenton attracted a large turnout, as classes from Trent River Public School (TRPS) in Trenton and students from East Northumberland Secondary School (ENSS) in Brighton, took a field trip; obtaining a firsthand look at parts of aboriginal traditions.

In order for the students to get a real hand experience, a lot of work behind the scenes went into setting up the site located at the Aboriginal Gardens, behind the Officer's Mess. An 8 Wing work party came out the previous week to set up tents and a tee pee in order to give the kids the full experience.

Defence Aboriginal Advisory Group (DAAG) civilian member Guy Mandeville, started the previous week setting up banners before heading to the Base garden. The banner he placed by Bain Park was created by students of ENSS almost five years ago and Mandeville says it's great to still have it to put up each year. He also found it inspiring that 8 Wing Trenton wanted to showcase the event on base.

"It shows that we are recognized in the Canadian Armed Forces (CAF)," said Mandeville.

During the early morning set up prior to the event, the 8 Wing work crew had some fun with Mandeville building the site. As Mandeville worked with Master Corporal (MCpl.) Dierjick of 8 Air Maintenance Squadron (AMS), he chuckled showing her how to tie tee pee poles together.

"This is just boy scouts 101, tying these knots," laughed Mandeville.

"I was a girl guide," said MCpl. Dierjick, "I can tie these even better because we had hair to braid."

Now, the day of, the garden was filled with students and CAF members wanting to learn a bit more about Canadian culture and history. Lieutenant-Colonel (Lt.-Col.) Leighton James of 424 Transport and Rescue (T&R) Squadron in Trenton was named DAAG Champion, and says he was quite pleased to be the liaison between the aboriginals on base and command.

"My job is to facilitate awareness, show support and share information on any issues pertaining to the aboriginal community," said Lt.-Col. James. "Each minority on base has an official rep, so I'm happy to be named Defence Champion of DAAG."

As students from TRPS came into the gardens and moved about the site, they made their way to a lodge to learn about drum making from Petawawa Elder Skip Ross. Grade five teacher Mrs. Meyer said that since this is now part of the learning curriculum, it was important for her students to come out and see things first hand.

"I want the students to get a better understanding of aboriginal people and obtain a better appreciation for this part of our heritage," said Meyers.

As the kids moved from the drum making lodge and outside, they stopped beside a bald eagle staff. There Elder Ross told them about the importance of the bald eagle to his culture.

"The bald eagle is our most sacred, as it is the animal that flies highest in the sky, the bald eagle sends our messages to the creator," said Ross.

For Ross, who is one of the most respected elders and called, Running River Man amongst his people, his hope was that students take what they learned back to the classroom for further discussion.

"I am in my 80's now, I was until recently a teacher for 38 schools in my county, teaching the ways of aboriginal life. I can't do that now because of my health, but I will always come down here to Trenton," said Ross. "I want to promote awareness and understanding and share our roots, which are part of Canada as well."

Gables always add to a home's charm, and this three-bedroom arts-and-crafts style structure is no exception.

Entry is through a covered porch, flanked by white pilasters with brick bases. In the foyer, there's a coat closet to the right, while directly ahead is the great room.

The open-plan great room features an extra-high ceiling, as well as a gas fireplace against one wall. French windows open onto a covered deck and the back garden beyond. The staircase to the unfinished basement, included with the plans, occupies a corner of the room and is protected by a railing.

The dining room windows look out to a sundeck, and the built-in buffet will provide extra storage space.

Plenty of natural light will flood into the kitchen through a skylight. A large prep island, in addition to generous counters, will provide plenty of work space. A corner pantry completes the amenities.

The master suite overlooks the back garden for privacy, and enjoys a window with an extra-deep sill that could double as a window seat. A spacious walk-in closet is included. The ensuite bathroom includes an oval soaker tub with its own window, as well as double sinks. The linen closet is conveniently located near the doorway.

The second bedroom looks out to the side garden, adjacent to a three-piece bathroom. The third bedroom, which can double as a den or home office, overlooks the front garden. The extra-deep window sill could serve as a window seat.

The laundry room, with a row of coat hooks over a bench, has access to the double garage and can double as a mud room.

Exterior finishes include painted wood siding and painted trim, with brick accents. Painted shingles decorate the gables.

This home measures 42 feet wide and 65 feet, four inches deep, for a total of 1,621 square feet. Ceilings are nine feet throughout, except in the great room, where they measure 11 feet.

Promotion and a new posting

Story submitted

The Canadian Forces Aircrew Selection Centre (CFASC) in Trenton celebrates the promotion of one of its staff. Brigadier General (Brig.-Gen.) Cochrane, Commander 2 Canadian Air Division used his visit to CFASC as an opportunity to help the Commanding Officer (CO) CFASC, Major Marty Zimmer present Lieutenant (Navy) (Lt(N)) Steve Brown with his new rank of Lieutenant-Commander (Lt.-Cmdr.).

Steve has been working at CFASC for the past three years as the Unit Personnel Selection Officer (PSO) where he has become the Air Force's Subject Matter Expert on Aircrew Selection Testing.

His efforts throughout his tour have included, providing career guidance to successful and unsuccessful aircrew candidates and augmenting the 8 Wing PSO. He has also been instrumental in working with the CF Recruiting Group to revise the recruiting process to increase the aircrew candidate intake from 560 to over 1400 candidates annually.

One of the highlights of his tour will be his participation in the recent Canadian Astronaut Selection Process. Steve's new promotion brings with it a posting from Trenton to Winnipeg where he will be assuming the position as the Division Personnel Selection Advisor to the Commander of 2 Canadian Air Division.

Kerry Vance gives her keynote speech in front of 270 guests

The 13tth annual Invisible Ribbon Gala was held at the National Air Force Museum of Canada (NAFMC) as the Military Family Resource Centre (MFRC) celebrated 25 years within the Trenton military community.

270 guests came out to help celebrate the milestone including, Chief of Defense Staff, General Jonathan Vance and his wife Kerry, who was also the keynote speaker for the evening.

Mrs. Vance who is an attorney and a retired Colonel from the United States Army is highly recognized as an advocate for military families.

"They are the heart of a community, they provide military families and service members with the strength to do what their country asks them to do and to support those who serve," said Kerry as she and General Vance enjoyed some time with guests, in the VIP section before the dinner.

Communications and Development Co-coordinator for the MFRC, Devon Taylor, was not only pleased with the turn out but also was encouraged to hear the strong backing words from Vance, as the MFRC expands into Belleville to help serve military members and their families further.

"Hearing that coming from Mrs. Kerry Vance, that's fantastic," said Taylor as the Piper gave out the 10-minute dinner warning. "It just goes to show you that the MFRC is recognized and supported from the very top level of the Canadian Armed Forces, right down to the families and the MFRC services who are on the grounds supporting the families' everyday."

Throughout the evening, guests were invited to bid on auction items found around the museum, as well as take part in a live auction. 100% of the net proceeds from this year's gala will be dedicated to Phase 2 of the expansion project, delivering essential MFRC programs and services in Belleville and Frankford.

"It was a great turnout, it's so nice to see the friendly faces of our supporters and sponsors and some new faces which means we're reaching new people in the community, and that's fantastic," said Taylor. "25 years means everything to us. We want to always be the ones who are meeting the
